Office Zeba Ali (OZA) is a non-profit organization based in Kabul, Afghanistan, that provides legal assistance to women and children. The organization was founded in 2008 by Zeba Ali, a prominent Afghan women's rights activist. Since its inception, OZA has provided legal aid to over 100,000 women and children, and has played a vital role in advocating for women's rights and empowerment in Afghanistan.

OZA's Work

OZA provides a wide range of legal services to women and children in Afghanistan, including:

* Legal advice and counseling * Representation in court * Legal literacy training * Advocacy for law reform * Support for victims of violence

OZA's legal team is composed of experienced Afghan lawyers who are committed to providing high-quality legal services to women and children. The team has a deep understanding of the Afghan legal system and is able to provide tailored legal advice and representation to clients.

OZA also provides legal literacy training to women and children in Afghanistan. This training helps women and children understand their legal rights and responsibilities, and empowers them to protect themselves against violence and discrimination.

OZA has been at the forefront of advocating for law reform in Afghanistan. The organization has played a key role in advocating for the adoption of the Elimination of Violence Against Women Law (EVAW Law) and the Child Protection Law. These laws have helped to improve the legal protections available to women and children in Afghanistan.

OZA also provides support for victims of violence. This support includes providing legal assistance, counseling, and shelter. OZA's team of social workers is trained to provide trauma-informed care to victims of violence.

The Impact of OZA's Work

OZA's work has had a significant impact on the lives of women and children in Afghanistan. The organization has helped to:

- * Increase access to justice for women and children
- * Improve the legal protections available to women and children
- * Empower women and children to fight against violence and discrimination
- * Raise awareness of women's rights and gender equality

OZA is a vital organization that is making a real difference in the lives of women and children in Afghanistan. The organization's work is essential to creating a more just and equitable society for all Afghans.

How to Support OZA

There are a number of ways you can support OZA's work:

* Donate to OZA * Volunteer your time * Spread the word about OZA's work

Your support will help OZA to continue providing vital legal assistance to women and children in Afghanistan.
